We had a sneaking liking for Senator Cummins till he said Roosevelt was a bigger man than Washington. A satyr to Hyperion, as it were.

There are a few Texas newspapers which, doubtless, would say if they dared that the Waters Pierce Oil Company has been shamefully treated.

Don't forget that the Eagle gives you all the most important events of the day at last twelve hours ahead of any other paper you can possibly get.

If a man is known by the company he keeps, President Taft must be a very immoral person, since he is on terms of intimacy with many members of the Ananias club.

Time was when nobody thought of associating evil with the word graft. It is a good old honest Anglo-Saxon word, but of late years it has fallen into disrepute by evil association. Yet there are still good grafters, of whom Luther Burbank is prince.

As was forecasted in the Eagle's news service last Friday Governor Campbell has appointed Mayor Wm. D. Williams of Fort Worth to fill the vacant place in the railroad commission. Judge Williams has signified his intention to accept and the senate is expected to confirm the appointment.

"There are kids in Gainesville who smoke 700 cigarettes every 24 hours." That is one every two minutes, allowing no time for eating or sleeping. This reminds us of some of the yarns told about the amount of whiskey consumed in Atlanta when they first had local option there, twenty-three years ago.

Many are the hearts that are wearily waiting for the legislature to sine die.

In the tariff debate why are the democratic senators like Moses? Because they are meek? No, but because they are slow of speech.

Niagara Falls needn't get scared—Chicago will never succeed in draining Lake Michigan off into the Mississippi River.

The Houston Chronicle publishes a front page, boxcar headlines a story of a combination of the Houston Oil Co., the Higgins Oil Co., and the Waters Pierce Oil Co., to take over the Texas as property of the last named, forming the biggest octopus that has yet made its habitat in the southwest. It may be true, but the Chronicle has something of a reputation for narrating fairy tales.

The new map of the stars which the International astronomical congress is making in Paris will show between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 stars, which the astronomers say are all in motion. When we remember that each of these is the center of a system and that our sun with its retinue of planets is among the smallest of them we can realize that Jack London was right when he compared human beings to the microbes in the yeast.

When Solomon said, "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it," he never meant that you can obey this command and enjoy the promise by sending your children to the public school and to Sunday school. The country is full of lawless boys and wayward girls because parents shirk their duty, clamoring for curfew laws, compulsory education and all such rot, with the vain and delusive hope that legislation can remedy their own neglect of duty. Give us one generation of parents who understand what God requires of them and perform it faithfully, and the next generation will usher in the millennium.

THE COMPROMISE BANK GUARANTY BILL.

Senators Meacham, Greer, Perkins and Harper have introduced a compromise bank deposits guaranty bill combining the salient features of the Cureton bill and the Senter-Hume measure with some new provisions. Inasmuch as it will probably pass both houses and be approved by the governor, the statement given out by the authors is herewith presented:

"It provides for two systems of security for depositors in state banks, those belonging to one system being defined as bond security banks and those belonging to the other system as guaranty fund banks, and provides that all banks and trust companies heretofore incorporated may have the option of availing their depositors of either system, but they shall not be required to accept either; that banks hereafter incorporated shall be required at the time chartered to adopt one system or the other, and elect which system they will adopt and adequate bond with good and sufficient sureties equal in amount to double the capital stock of the bank be $50,000 or less, or one and one-half times the capital stock if not more than $50,000 and not more than $100,000, and equal to the capital stock if it be more than $100,000. It further provides, however, that any bank of the last named class which, at the time of failure, shall have on hand, exclusive real estate mortgages or vendors' liens or municipal, state, county or district bonds, that such mortgages, liens or bonds may be taken at their actual cash market value as a credit upon the liability of the securities upon the bond.

"These provisions render the bond, while ample protection for the depositor, much less onerous upon the bank than former bills proposed, providing a system of safeguarding de-positors by bonds which are feasible and practical, and which good and solvent banks will have no trouble in making. The bill further provides that the bond may be made by individual securities, and that each surety may limit his liability upon the bond to a specific amount, provided that there shall be not less than three such securities, and that they must be residents of the state of Texas, own property in this state above exemptions, insuring solvency. The bond can also be made by surety companies.

"All guaranty fund banks are required to contribute to a state bank guaranty fund treated and maintained along the lines of the house bill, except that the total amount of the fund is required to be not less than $300,000 instead of not less than $500,000, as the house bill requires; and instead of the fund being placed on deposit with the various banks contributing, as provided in the house bill, it is provided that 25 per cent thereof, or $100,000, whichever is the greater, is required to be kept on deposit with the state treasurer at all times in actual cash. The bill provides for the payment of the guaranteed deposits of closed guaranty fund banks out of the state bank guaranty fund in cash upon proof of the depositors' claims along the lines of the house bill, except that all such depositors are required to be paid in cash, and no certificates are allowed to be used for such payments as provided in the house bill. Only the noninterest-bearing deposits of guaranty fund banks are permitted to establish savings departments in the manner provided in the house bill. The bill contains most of the provisions of the house bill for their frequent examinations, most all of which are taken from the national bank law and have proven their efficiency. It also carries the penal provisions for the protection of depositors contained in the house bill, which are practically the same as those of the national banking law and the New York state law.

"The bill as prepared contains also some provisions along the lines of the bill introduced in the house by Representative Gilmore, and also the bill introduced in the house by Messrs. McDonald and Self. While containing many provisions fundamentally similar to the bills heretofore proposed in both branches of the Legislature, it also incorporates new and original ideas. Upon the whole, we confidently assert that the bill assures, honest and safe banking in Texas as nearly as can be done by legislation.

"The house bill required, as we viewed it, and because of which mainly three of the authors of this bill opposed it, that through the guaranty fund system one state bank should be compelled to stand good for the debts of another. The bill which we have drawn, on the contrary, simply provides that any bank heretofore incorporated, not desiring to do so, may avail itself of the guaranty fund system. This system is a voluntary one, in accordance with the idea embodied in the bill on this subject introduced by Senator Culberson. In Congress last year, and we confidently believe that it will fully meet the wishes of the people who sincerely desire that their money deposited in banks shall be protected. While fully protecting the people, the bill establishes safeguards for the depositors along sound and conservative business lines, and at the same time is not too burdensome upon the honest bank.

"Being unwilling that the Legislature should adjourn without enacting a proper guaranty law, we have earnestly endeavored to perfect a measure that offers a common ground upon which all who favor meeting the demands for the better securing of depositors in state banks may reasonably unite. If the legislative and penal provisions of the bill are enacted in the law, we confidently believe that the state banks of Texas will be as well safeguarded for the protection of the people who deposit their money in them, as well as the stockholders of the bank, as any in the world."
